Description

Large Kuba mask known as the "Royal," ground floor, height 27 cm, width 33. These masks are often a bit heavy, with garish colors and an over-the-top design, and personally, I don't much care for them,... But this one is particularly beautiful, relatively understated, and above all, it has lovely, soft colors, with turquoise and white beads that stand out against the honey-colored jute background. It resembles a model from Christie's => KUBA Numerous cowrie shells, a thin sheet of copper on the forehead--a very beautiful example of its kind, circa 1950.
