Description

Round wooden side table - Gray marble top - 19th century
Elegant 19th-century round side table, resting on a substantial central base of turned and molded wood. The central shaft, generously turned into a baluster, rests on a tripod base composed of three curved and molded legs, giving the piece a balanced and elegant silhouette. The circular wooden band features beautiful grain and a warm, aged patina. The side table is topped with a thick circular gray marble top with pronounced white veining, which is particularly decorative. Its rim is adorned with several concentric moldings. In good overall condition with signs of wear and tear consistent with its age. The marble top notably has a few small chips and imperfections along the edge, visible in the photographs. A decorative pedestal
