Description

A rare quadrangular vase in multilayered glass by Daum Nancy, circa 1900-1905, featuring a continuous band of winter landscape decoration animated by numerous crows, perched on branches or in flight. The design extends across all four sides, depicting bare, snow-covered trees in a rolling landscape, rendered in delicate shades of sky blue, lemon yellow, and white, accented with black highlights. The acid-etching, enamel overglaze, and textural effects lend the piece remarkable depth. A particularly refined and sophisticated composition, characteristic of Daum Nancy's most original works from around 1900. Signature: Daum Nancy with the Cross of Lorraine, on the base. Date: circa 1900-1905. Height: 19 cm. Square cross-section. In very fine condition.
