Description

Antonio De Nisco is a prolific Italian artist who expressed himself through painting, ceramics, sculpture, as well as in the fields of interior design and even advertising. His work as a designer during the 1960s and 1970s is often associated with the Belgian School. The coffee table offered for sale is a fine example of his work from the early 1970s. It features a playful and colorful style, full of life. The tabletop is adorned with a hand-painted "fireworks" motif and glazed. The table rests on a chrome-plated steel base. The piece is in very good original condition. The tiles are in perfect condition. The table is signed.
