

Porcelain Biscuit, 18th-century Romantic Scene In The Style Of 19th-century Sèvres

360 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Parfait état

Material : Porcelain

Description

A charming, romantic scene after Boucher in the Louis XV style from the 19th century, depicting an aristocrat courting a lady who is trying not to give in to his advances. Signed in the Sèvres style on the underside. Ideal for complementing an 18th-century decor; these decorative objects are typical of that era and can be placed on a chest of drawers or mantelpiece to complement a clock, or on a banquet table for a refined dinner. This is an ornate piece from every angle, designed to be viewed from all sides--for example, in the center of a table or with its back to a mirror. In perfect condition, no damage: all the fingers are intact. Width: 21.5 cm x 15.5 cm Height: 17.5 cm
