

PROANTIC
LE PLUS BEAU CATALOGUE D'ANTIQUITES

Manufacture Honoré - Antique White And Gold Porcelain Soup Tureen And Stand, Restored - Signed

550 EUR

Signature : Manufacture Honoré, sucesseur de Dagoty

Period : 19th century

Condition : Parfait état

Material : Porcelain

Description

Oille pot / soup tureen and its period display stand. Restored in Paris porcelain accented with fine gold fillets. A beautiful early 19th-century model dating from around 1825-1830, finely decorated with coiled shell-shaped handles and a walled base. The soup tureen bears the signature of the Manufacture Honoré on the underside. The Honoré Manufactory, successor to Dagoty, was a Parisian porcelain manufacturer initially located on Boulevard Saint-Antoine, then on Boulevard des Poissonnières in Paris. Édouard Honoré had a workshop in Paris and, starting in 1824, transferred the production of unglazed porcelain to Champroux, in the Allier department, while retaining his Parisian workshop for decoration. Our platter dates from this period. It is in excellent condition--over 200 years old and virtually like

Dealer

GSLR Antiques

French Antiques - 18th to 20th century.

Mobile : +33658910924

4 rue Vicat

Grenoble 38 000

new. The gilding shows no wear, and there are no chips or cracks. We are selling several pieces from part of this set by the Honoré Manufactory, as shown in the last photos. A rare piece with an unusual shape, especially in such excellent condition. Width: 35.5 cm Height: 29.5 cm Diameter: 27.5 cm