Description

An important and elegant pair of large candelabra in gilded bronze and dark-patinated bronze, in the Empire style, dating from the 19th century. Each candelabrum features a winged Victory in patinated bronze, dressed in antique-style drapery and depicted standing atop a gilded bronze sphere. The figures, with their arms raised, support a symmetrical arrangement of multiple candle-holding arms, ending in finely crafted bobèches and candle holders embellished with gilding. The Victories rest on imposing gilded bronze cylindrical bases, richly decorated with chiseled motifs and supported by quadrangular plinths. Particularly elegant is the contrast between the dark patina of the figures and the luminosity of the gilded bronze, which enhances the richness of the composition. The imposing
