Description

Japanese-inspired modular table with a solid iroko base, featuring six sliding, removable, and reversible tabletops framed in iroko--one side in light blue laminate, the other in ribbed aluminum. Designed by Bernard Vuarnesson, stamped Vuarnesson, for Bellato edition, circa 1980. Good condition: a few scratches on the wood, minor dents on the aluminum side of some trays. Dimensions of one tray: 70 cm x 50 cm x 3 cm. Bernard Vuarnesson (1935), a graduate of the Ecole Supérieure du Bois, became a civil engineer at the Conservatoire National des Arts et Métiers in Paris. In 1973, he co-founded the publishing house Sculpture et Jeux with his wife, Ariane Vuarnesson, and then, beginning in 1982, devoted himself to designing transformable furniture. His modular furniture has brought
