Description

This enchanting khorjin possesses a rather rare quality: the ability to evoke an immediate emotional response. This piece embodies both mastery and harmony--a beauty that moves the viewer even before one attempts to understand its details. And yet, the details are numerous. On a relatively small surface, the weaver has created a particularly balanced composition, where large diamond shapes interlock and echo one another with remarkable precision. The pattern is dense without ever appearing cluttered. This is undoubtedly what makes this piece so captivating. The color palette plays a key role in this harmony. The various shades of indigo blue interact with the browns, coppery earth tones, and touches of ivory that brighten the overall composition. The back, which is entirely woven,
