Description

Pair of neoclassical candlesticks in gilded bronze, late 18th - early 19th century. An elegant pair of gilded bronze candlesticks, featuring a refined neoclassical design characterized by a slender fluted shaft and rich ornamentation in the classical style. The cylindrical, finely fluted shaft is embellished at the top with an elegant collar of cascading leaves, surmounted by a candle holder with a slightly flared rim. The lower section features elaborate decorative bands with plant motifs, beading, and acanthus leaves, connected to the base by a refined turned element. Particularly striking is the sculpted, tripartite base, adorned with large acanthus leaves, volutes, and floral motifs, with small claw-like elements that lend the entire piece remarkable solidity and a pronounced
