Description

Small Empire-style bookcase, 19th century
Elegant small bookcase/display cabinet made of solid cherry wood opening at the front with two glass doors set in molded frames. The upper section features a straight, slightly projecting pediment, embellished on the front with delicate gilded bronze applied decoration featuring a floral motif, adding a touch of refinement to the piece. The doors are adorned with gilded bronze handles and keyholes, featuring stylized palmette motifs characteristic of the Empire style. The interior, fitted with shelves, offers an ideal space for displaying books, objets d'art, or collections. The lower section of the doors consists of solid, molded panels. The front legs feature freestanding columns and are topped with decorative bronze rings, typical of the Empire furniture
