Description

On display in Paris. Free in-person pickup in the capital and its suburbs. Shipping within France: EUR20; contact me for Europe and the rest of the world. "Famille Rose" bowl with historical decoration. Glazed porcelain. China, apocryphal Yongzheng mark (1722-1735) Republic period. Dimensions: Diameter 17.3 cm. Condition report: perfect condition. This bowl features an elegant, classic design typical of Chinese ceramics--in this case, an allegorical scene depicting prosperity and longevity, in which the Taoist deity Shoulao can be seen. He is recognizable by his advanced age, the shape of his skull, and his staff adorned with a gourd. Standing in the shade of a tree, he is surrounded by children carrying peaches. One can also read the poetic verse: ??????, ?????? Which translates to "I slowly pour the wine of the hundredflowers of Penglai, to offer it to the living beings of this world of dust." (Mount Penglai is a sacred and mythical mountain-island in the Bohai Sea in Chinese mythology, considered the realm of the Eight Immortals). In the background, within a double blue circle with a shaded outline, we find once again the peach, the supreme symbol of immortality and longevity.
