Description

An important Italian painting from the second half of the 19th century. This monumental oil-on-canvas work is signed "F. Vinea" at the bottom left and is attributable to the renowned Italian painter Francesco Vinea (1845-1902), an artist highly acclaimed for his elegant period-costume scenes. The painting depicts a lady and a gentleman in full-length poses, accompanied by a magnificent greyhound on a grand terrace. The young woman, her smiling face framed by soft curls, wears a luminous ivory gown with voluminous sleeves and a refined lace collar, paired with a long blue over-garment embellished with gold trim. Beside her, the gentleman strikes a proud yet relaxed pose, one hand resting on his hip and his sword prominently displayed. The flesh tones are modeled through delicate tonal transitions; the woman's smile and the gentleman's steadier gaze lend distinct personalities to the figures, making the composition lively and engaging. The color palette is organized around ivory white, deep blue, black, and the red of the large drape unfurling behind the couple. On the right, a column adorned with foliate motifs accentuates the setting's grandeur, while the balustrade and the cloud-streaked sky add depth to the composition. Having trained in Florence under Enrico Pollastrini, Francesco Vineo developed a distinctive style centered on cavaliers, ladies, and scenes of gallant life, earning great favor among international collectors. In this composition, echoes of aristocratic portraiture blend with the decorative charm typical of 19th-century painting. The work is presented in a 20th-century gilded wooden frame, the understated profile of which enhances the richness of the scene. Its monumental scale and the elegance of the figures make it ideal for a grand drawing room, an impressive entrance hall, or a prestigious residence, whether classic or contemporary. The painting has already undergone restoration, including relining, replacement of the stretcher, and minor retouching. Overall, the painting is in good condition. Internal dimensions: H 220 x W 173 cm. As with each of our products it will be accompanied by a certificate of authenticity and guarantee with photographic documentation.
