Description

925 Sterling Silver Necklace with Tahitian Cultured Pearl Elegant necklace featuring a 42 cm cable in solid 925 sterling silver, enhanced by a beautiful round Tahitian cultured pearl mounted in a through setting. Measuring approximately 12 mm in diameter, the pearl displays a sophisticated dark body colour with beautiful grey, violet and green overtones, which become more pronounced and subtly change according to the light. Its distinctive colour and lustrous surface give the necklace an elegant and exotic character. The necklace is completed with a hallmarked 925 sterling silver clasp, confirming the fineness of the silver. Tahitian pearls are renowned for their exotic elegance and distinctive natural colours. They are cultivated in the lagoons of French Polynesia from the pearl oyster Pinctada margaritifera, also known as the black-lipped oyster. Their natural colour range extends from light grey to deep grey and black, often displaying attractive overtones of green, blue, violet and aubergine. The quality of a Tahitian pearl is assessed according to several criteria, including size, shape, colour, surface quality and lustre. The round shape, 12 mm diameter and particularly attractive multicoloured overtones make this pearl the focal point of the necklace, combining understated elegance with an exotic and distinctive appeal.
