Description

Miniature sculpture of a parrot (cockatoo) carved from semi-precious stones on an amethyst base, 20th century
A charming miniature sculpture depicting a parrot with outstretched wings, carved from semi-precious stones in shades of cream and honey. The plumage is finely engraved, the amber-colored crest extends backward, and the beak is carved from dark stone. The eye is set with a black pearl, and the legs are made of gilded metal. The bird rests on a block of raw amethyst with translucent purple crystals, which contrasts with the softness of the plumage.
