Description

A beautiful terracotta sculpture by Marthe Baumel-Schwenck (1913-1992), depicting a young nude woman seated with her arms raised behind her head in a natural and graceful pose. The material deliberately retains the traces and irregularities of the modeling process, giving the work its unique character and authenticity. This sculpture perfectly exemplifies Marthe Baumel-Schwenck's work exploring the female figure and the nude, in a modern aesthetic marked by softness and simplicity. Incised signature "Marthe Schwenck" on the base of the sculpture. In perfect condition.
