Description

An elegant, flared vase made of violet-tinted glass, featuring a geometric design of triangles and vertical lines that have been acid-etched and patinated. The interplay of the glass's transparency and the subtlety of the design harmoniously accentuate the body of the vase, lending it a beautiful sense of depth. The neck is accented by a delicate silver band, adding a precious and refined touch to this quintessentially Art Deco piece. The piece rests on a small circular violet glass pedestal. A beautiful creation from the Daum Nancy factory, reflecting the company's taste for the clean lines and geometric designs characteristic of the 1930s.
