Description

Pair of imposing cast-iron candlesticks - Neo-Renaissance style - 20th century A beautiful and imposing pair of cast-iron candlesticks, featuring rich Renaissance-inspired decoration. Each piece rests on a wide, molded square base, adorned with rosettes and plant motifs in relief. The tall shaft, particularly intricately crafted, is punctuated by gadroons, fluting, and foliage motifs. The upper section features a wide circular cup with a gadrooned rim, designed to hold a candle. Beautiful antique patina in shades of beige and verdigris, with signs of wear and oxidation consistent with their age. Highly decorative due to their proportions and presence, these candle holders can be displayed in an entryway, a chapel, or a period interior, or repurposed as plant stands. Material:
