Description

A Louis XIV-era painting on wood, likely intended for a door transom. It depicts a charming pastoral scene featuring two monkey musicians playing their instruments on the edge of a wooded landscape, accompanied by ducks and birds. The piece is enhanced by a rich carved and gilded wooden frame, topped with an elegant foliage motif. A rare and original work, in its original condition, uncommon, and full of character. Minor touch-ups with paint and minor restoration of the gilding. Frame dimensions: Height: 60 cm Width: 69 cm Painting dimensions: Height: 58 cm at the highest point Width: 64 cm
