Description

Brass lantern clock, topped by a spinning top supported by four others joined by a crossbar above the bell. Each rests on a Doric column. The main dial is richly decorated with floral scrollwork, adorned at the top and bottom with scenes featuring chimeras and dogs, all surmounted by a sun. It features a rotating dial for the alarm. The hour markers consist of enameled plates; the name of the clockmaking workshop, "Joseph Simon Cousin," is also present. Sturdy steel hour and minute hands. The model is in good condition; the gong is in perfect condition but has likely been replaced. Pediment dimensions: 41/24 cm. The clock also includes its case, weights, and pendulum, if needed.
