Description

As is often the case, Albert Rigolot presents us with a bucolic and soothing scene that fills us with serenity. A lake, one or two fishermen's boats, a sailboat in the distance, and close by, the shore where a few tall poplars stand tall and are reflected in the water alongside the sky and the clouds. Albert Gabriel Rigolot was born in Paris on November 28, 1862; he died in the same city on April 25, 1932; he was a student of Léon Pelouse. He made his debut at the Salon des Artistes Français in 1886 and won a second-class silver medal in the charcoal category at the International Black-and-White Exhibition; in 1890, he won the Brizard Prize. In 1900, the Train Bleu restaurant at the Gare de Lyon commissioned him to create a view of Beaulieu to decorate one of its dining rooms, and that
