Servingdish, vegetable bowl in solid silver from the Art Deco period by the silversmiths Tétard Frères (Henry, Jacques, and Georges). Circular in shape, with a plain body and a base curved inward; its geometric handles made of Macassar wood provide a warm and elegant contrast to the brilliance of the silver. Probably designed by Jean Tétard (son of Henri), famous for combining silver with precious woods. Jean joined his father and uncles around 1930 at the Tétard Frères company. The firm was founded in 1903 following the death of their father, Edmond Tétard, in 1901. Weight & Dimensions: Length from one handle to the other: 28 cm. / 11.2 in. Inner diameter: 21 cm. / 8.27 in. Outer diameter: 23.5 cm. / 9.25 in. Height/Depth: 6.3 cm / 2.48 in. Total weight: 704 gr. Master
