Description

A striking Belgian Art Deco mirror dating from around 1920, distinguished by its bold geometric composition and warm wooden construction. The circular frame is assembled from carefully shaped wooden segments arranged in an interlocking pattern, creating a dynamic sense of movement while maintaining the symmetry and balance characteristic of the Art Deco period. The design is enhanced by contrasting dark geometric lines that accentuate the angular arrangement of the wooden elements, lending the mirror a strong architectural presence. The interplay between the rich wood tones and the graphic geometric detailing reflects the fascination with modernity, craftsmanship, and stylized form that defined European Art Deco design during the early decades of the twentieth century. sculptural, the mirror functions as both a practical object and a decorative artwork. Its clean circular silhouette allows it to integrate effortlessly into Art Deco, Mid-Century Modern, contemporary, eclectic, and modern rustic interiors. Positioned above a console, sideboard, fireplace, or in an entrance hall, it creates a strong visual focal point while adding warmth and depth to a space. The mirror remains in good vintage condition with normal signs of age and wear, consistent with its period and use.
