

Pair Of Empire-style Wall Sconces Featuring Bronze Putti With Snakes

1 200 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Etat d'usage

Material : Bronze

Description

A striking pair of bronze wall sconces with two light arms. An ornate design featuring a cherub with arms proudly outstretched toward the sky, emerging from a cornucopia and holding the candleholders, each arm adorned with an intertwined serpent. The entire piece is mounted on a plate shaped like a flaming quiver. Origin: France Period: Empire Height: 48 cm Quiver width: 8 cm Cherub length: 35 cm Candlestick span: 17.5 cm A very beautiful piece with a lovely patina from use. Note a slight modification, likely made in the late 19th or early 20th century, indicated by holes drilled to accommodate electrical wiring.
