Description

Oil on canvas. In the foreground, the ruins of a large classical-style building with imposing columns dominate the scene. In the background, beyond a body of water, a small castle with a bridge, rendered in shades of white and blue that blend the water with the sky. On the canvas itself, the painting shows traces of previous restorations. It is presented in a late 19th-century frame, which has been regilded. ARARPI0319222
