Description

Eight beautiful dinner plates from the famous "Japon" dinner service, produced starting in 1876 by the Creil and Montereau pottery. They are characterized by fine earthenware with a slightly bluish body, onto which a design is printed in a darker blue. The design features motifs of cherry trees, plum trees, and fences adorned with chrysanthemum flowers. It is also known as the "Monet set" because the artist owned a similar set at his estate in Giverny. The set is in exceptional condition--it looks as good as new despite its age. Perfect for complementing a collection of Chinese porcelain or East India Company porcelain, for lovers of beautifully set tables, or even for a sushi night with friends!
