Description

School of Claude-Joseph Vernet (1714-1789) -- Lively Harbor Scene at Sunset, oil on copper, 18th century
A harbor composition in the Vernet style, depicting in the foreground figures and herds gathered around a tent and a ruined obelisk, while in the background lies a calm harbor bustling with ships at anchor in the warm light of late afternoon, the whole structured by ancient architectural elements evoking the Italian seascapes of Claude-Joseph Vernet, executed with finesse on a thick copper plate characteristic of the 18th century and presented in a modern gilded wooden frame.
Details: Technique: oil on copper plate - Date: circa 1750-1760 - Attribution: circle or follower of Claude-Joseph Vernet - Signature: unsigned - Condition: very good overall condition, slight surface patina
