Pair Of Louis XV-era Cabriolet Armchairs - 18th-century Parisian Craftsmanship

850 EUR

Period : 18th century

Condition : Etat d'usage

Description

An elegant and charming pair of armchairs with cabriolet backs, made of natural wood that is molded and delicately carved, from the Louis XV period (18th century), Parisian craftsmanship. These chairs feature the sinuous and harmonious lines characteristic of the Parisian Rocaille style. The top of the backrest and the front crossbar of the seat are adorned with carved floral and foliage motifs. They rest on four curved legs that end discreetly in a small scroll. The wooden frame is sound, very stable, and in good overall condition. Condition of the upholstery: They are upholstered in a floral damask-style fabric and feature upholstery tufting. The fabric shows signs of use, with general wear and tear as well as a few visible stains (particularly on the seats and backs). Although
