

French Primitive Wooden Bench With Splayed Legs, 19th Century

2 000 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Bon état

Material : Oak

Width : 140

Height : 42

Depth : 22.5

Description

A beautifully rustic French primitive bench dating from the 19th century, crafted from a single thick wooden plank resting on four hand-shaped splayed legs. Rich in character and authenticity, the bench embodies the simplicity and functional craftsmanship of rural French furniture. The elongated seat displays wonderful surface texture, deep grain patterns, and a richly aged patina accumulated through generations of use. Traditional wooden pegs remain visible across the top, highlighting the bench's handcrafted construction and vernacular origins. The naturally shaped legs are set at a gentle angle, providing both stability and a sculptural, organic appearance. Old woodworm traces, now inactive, contribute to the bench's authentic timeworn character and attest to its age. The

Dealer

Gallery K7

Antiquités et design

Mobile : 0496420048

Kasteeldreef 7

Tielt 8760

weathered surfaces, irregular contours, and honest wear make this piece particularly appealing to collectors of primitive, wabi-sabi, and rustic furniture. Equally suited as a hallway bench, hearth bench, decorative display platform, or accent piece, it brings warmth, history, and understated elegance to both traditional and contemporary interiors.