Description

Small Directoire-style walnut cabinet - 18th century
Charming small Directoire-style walnut cabinet from the 18th century, featuring beautiful proportions and a lovely antique patina. It opens at the front with two doors featuring molded panels, highlighting the magnificent grain of the walnut. The upper section is crowned by an elegant overhanging cornice, embellished with small bronze ornaments at the corners. The interior offers ample storage space with two shelves and two small drawers. A large drawer is also located in the lower section of the cabinet. This cabinet rests on straight legs and displays the understated elegance characteristic of the Directoire period. An authentic 18th-century piece with particularly appealing dimensions that would fit easily into either a traditional or
