Description

A three-piece French mantelpiece set, miniature in size, from the Belle Époque period and in the Louis XVI style. It consists of a clock and a pair of matching candlesticks, made of gilded bronze on white marble. The clock features a drum-shaped case, topped by a bird perched on a garland of flowers. It rests on a fluted marble column, flanked by two stylized dolphins and encircled by a laurel wreath at its base. The set sits on a rectangular marble base, adorned with a laurel garland appliqué tied with a ribbon, and rests on spindle-shaped feet. The back door is finely engraved. The enameled dial features Arabic numerals and is decorated with painted floral festoons. The French movement, with a platform escapement, is numbered 5198. The candlesticks are shaped like fluted columns.
