Description

This console features a brass structure with four tapered uprights ending in small spinning-top feet, holding three transparent glass tiers bordered with a mirror frame. Each apron is finely edged with a beaded frieze, and the top of the uprights is adorned with floret rosettes that punctuate the construction with delicacy. This refined Neoclassical vocabulary - beaded friezes, mirror-bordered glass, slender spindles - allows this console to be associated with the productions of Maison Jansen, the famous Parisian decorating house founded in 1880, whose freestanding brass and glass furniture is among the most sought-after on the market. Condition report: Good general condition. Brass with a fine gilt patina, original glass and mirrors, visible on the lower tier. A light and luminous console, perfect in an entrance
