Description

Large, free-form coffee table crafted from an imposing elm burl, circa 1960. The tabletop retains the wood's irregular contours as well as its natural hollows and protrusions. The polished surface reveals a particularly dense and dynamic grain, while the darker, unfinished edges highlight the original shape of the piece of wood. The piece's form thus derives directly from the material itself, in the spirit of the brutalist and organic furniture of the 1960s. Provenance: Switzerland. Circa 1960.
