Description

Virgin and Child, carved from linden wood, German, Tyrolean religious art, mid-20th century. Depiction of the Virgin and Child, its style blending classical and modern elements in the tradition of German folk and religious craftsmanship from the Tyrol region. Commissioned for the homes or small private chapels of Christian and Catholic German families, this maternal and human depiction of Mary and the infant Jesus brings protection and faith to the homes that welcome it. The quality of the realism and craftsmanship in this sculpture, with its moving drapery, the harmonious faces full of human emotion, makes this sculpture a true work of modern German religious art from the mid-20th century, which is sure to move the believers who display it in their homes.
