Description

Limoges porcelain tobacco jar depicting a seated monkey, a design created in 1916 by the animal sculptor Édouard-Marcel Sandoz (1881-1971) for the Théodore Haviland factory.The monkey is depicted in a crouched position, with its front legs tucked in and its long tail wrapped around the base. Its head, which serves as a removable lid, has a particularly mischievous expression, with large round eyes and protruding ears.The decoration, rendered in shades of brown on a white background, highlights the different parts of the fur and emphasizes the quality of the modeling. This creation exemplifies the naturalistic, stylized, and humorous approach characteristic of Édouard-Marcel Sandoz's animal sculptures.Signatures and marks:Handwritten signature "E. M.
