Description

A rare and striking decorative rooster-shaped ewer, combining engraved clear glass with finely crafted silver mounts. The hinged lid depicts the rooster's head, complete with a crest, beak, and eyes made of red glass that capture the animal's lively gaze. The glass body is adorned with engravings evoking the bird's plumage. The base depicts the bird's legs and tail, cast in silver with remarkable attention to detail. The curved glass handle blends harmoniously into the silhouette, enhancing its fluid elegance. Crafted in the workshops of J.D. Schleissner Söhne in Hanau--a renowned center of historicist German goldsmithing--this piece embodies the late 19th-century taste for animal forms symbolizing refinement and luxury. Hallmarks: J.D.
