Description

A very beautiful armchair with a flat, wide backrest, known as a "Queen-style" armchair from the Louis XV period. Our seat, made of natural waxed beech, rests on four curved legs. The two front legs are adorned with a small floral motif and finished at their tips with an acanthus leaf. The apron is scalloped and undulating; it is also embellished on the front crossbar with charming floral carving. The armrest consoles are curved and recessed, featuring a projecting molding. They support the armrests, which are fitted with cuffs. The backrest is violin-shaped and adorned at its top with a bouquet consisting of two small flowers and acanthus leaves on the shoulder. This chair is in perfect condition; the frame is very sturdy, the upholstery is comfortable, and the covering fabric
