Description

Rare cabinet piece--a desk notepad with a silver lid, mounted on a massive green onyx base, crafted in the old Russian style by Pyotr Miliukov's Moscow workshop. The lid is adorned with a repoussé scene depicting a majestic bogatyr (epic hero) riding through a dense forest. The composition is enriched with inlays of semi-precious stones from the Urals, set into the helmet, armor, foliage, and decorative inscription. The lower part features an archaic inscription in Slavic characters: "The Bogatyr rides above the towering forest," emphasizing the allegorical grandeur of the hero, for whom the forest reaches only to his chest. The interior contains a complete block of antique leaves with gilded edges. The object is fully functional and constitutes a remarkable example of Russian
