Description

Pierre Vachin (1907-1988), a figurative painter associated with the School of Paris, known for his interior scenes, nudes, and compositions featuring expressive blocks of color. A beautiful oil on canvas representative of the expressionist and semi-abstract style of the 1960s. The composition centers on a figure with a stylized face (or studio model), surrounded by still-life elements (vases, structured objects) against a geometric background of bold, flat colors (red, blue, ochre, gray). The treatment of the medium and the structuring of the forms reflect a strong aesthetic exploration, straddling the line between figuration and modern abstraction. Dimensions: 100 cm / 73 cm.
