

Blue-and-white Chinese Porcelain Vase - 19th Century, Qing Dynasty.

450 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Très bon état

Material : Porcelain

Description

Chinese blue-and-white porcelain flower vase - 19th century, Qing Dynasty Chinese porcelain flower vase with blue-and-white decoration, from the 19th century, made during the Qing Dynasty (1644-1912). This piece captivates with its unique silhouette: five rounded compartments surround a long central neck, crowned by an opening shaped like a blooming flower. Designed to hold the stems separately, it allows for the creation of a bouquet in which the flowers naturally follow the lines of the porcelain. Its underglaze cobalt-blue decoration features an interlacing pattern of floral scrolls and foliage. The shades of blue--sometimes delicate, sometimes deep--stand out against the white background and accentuate the piece's form. A frieze of multilobed motifs enlivens the shoulder, while long, stylized leaves

Dealer

Antiquaire Art & Antics Mr Grabinski
Antiquités, Objets d'art, Décoration et collections

Tel : 06 80 87 12 34

Mobile : 06 80 87 12 34

1 RUE VOLTAIRE

Grenoble 38000

adorn the lower section. The neck echoes this botanical motif and culminates in a crown of raised petals. With its architectural design and rich ornamentation, this flower vase is a beautiful collector's item for enthusiasts of 19th-century Chinese porcelain. It also fits perfectly into any interior, where its decorative presence speaks for itself, with or without flowers. In perfect condition. Dimensions: height 25.5 cm; diameter 19 cm.