Description

19th-century antique Regency style tea caddy measuring 14 x 20 x 11 cm. The convex, bow-fronted wooden case is covered in polished tortoiseshell veneer sheets bordered by white bone stringing lines. The top lid features a rectangular silver plaque, and the front panel is decorated with a matching rectangular silver keyhole escutcheon plate, an oval keyhole insert, and inlaid silver wirework forming a multi-pointed star surrounded by scrolling foliate oak leaf branches. The caddy stands on 4 integrated white bun feet, and the base is lined with brown velvet cloth. The interior lid is lined with red velvet fabric. The interior body contains 2 separate storage compartments, each fitted with a removable tortoiseshell-veneered lid with a single central white bone turn knob. The internal
