

Earthenware Lamp, 19th Century, Imari Design.

490 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Bon état

Material : Earthenware

Height : 55 cm

Description

This lovely lamp, made of polychrome earthenware, features the red, blue, and gold motifs characteristic of 18th-century Imari porcelain. Shaped like a bottle with eight fluted sides, it is adorned with a pair of peacocks depicted on a terrace from which flowering branches extend. The neck and base are painted with a scalloped frieze. It has just been rewired; we are presenting it with a basic lampshade that does not justify the shipping costs. Bears a mark on the reverse. Date: late 19th century. Height of the lamp alone: 31 cm. Height with lampshade: 55 cm.
