Description

Émile Gallé (1846-1904) - Multilayered glass vase with olive tree design Vase signed Gallé, ovoid in shape with a short, slightly flared neck, made of multilayered glass with an acid-etched design. Olive branches bearing long, tapered leaves and olives spread across the circumference of the body. The design stands out in shades of brown and olive green against a luminous yellow background, accented with touches of orange-red and soft green at the base. The interplay of the different layers of glass lends the motif beautiful effects of depth, while the contrast between the satin-finished surfaces and the raised reliefs highlights the delicacy of the botanical design. The vase's rounded shape showcases this naturalistic composition in the spirit of Art Nouveau. "Gallé" signature integrated into the
