Description

SILVER VASE-BOX IN THE SHAPE OF A TIED PURSE, DECORATED WITH A ROSE IN RELIEF. MANUFACTURED BY OREST KOURLIOUKOV. MOSCOW, 1899-1908 An elegant silver vase-casket crafted in the shape of a gently cinched purse. The body, delicately modeled with rounded forms and soft folds, creates a remarkable illusion of fabric and features an expressive silhouette characteristic of Russian Art Nouveau. The neck appears to be held in place by a loosely knotted ribbon. A rose in relief, accompanied by foliage, is harmoniously integrated into the knot; its naturalistic modeling offers a refined contrast to the smooth surface of the body. The asymmetrical composition of the floral decoration, the fluidity of the lines, and the impression of movement lend this work a
