1 350 EUR

Period : 17th century

Condition : Parfait état

Material : Porcelain

Description

A rare pair of lidded baluster-shaped vases made of porcelain painted with cobalt blue underglaze, recovered from the Chinese shipwreck off the coast of Vung Tau (Vietnam). The decoration consists of cartouches set within a floral motif, depicting a slender woman in a garden, known among Anglo-Saxon collectors by the nickname "Long Eliza". In excellent condition, with no cracks or chips, and very glossy. Rare as a pair with matching lids. Height: 21 cm, weight: 540 and 610 g. Free shipping in France via registered Colissimo with signature required. Ref.: o C. Jörg & M. Flecker, 2001: Porcelain from the Vung Tau wreck. o Christie's, 1992: The Vung Tau Cargo, Lots 724-35 (last two photos). To view other items: www.lamalledugouverneur.com
