Description

Painting on a wooden panel (mahogany). Depicting a Provençal landscape scene with a "pouzarenque" in the center. This Occitan word refers to a well whose mechanism is powered by a draft animal.The vegetation is lush thanks to the presence of water. The stone well curb is clearly visible, as is the wheel mechanism powered by a harnessed mule. You can see the water gushing out!This painting is presented in its original 19th-century gilded scrollwork frame. The panel is signed in the lower right corner, but I have not been able to identify the artist.Panel dimensions: 34.5 x 22 cmFrame dimensions: 46.5 x 34 cm
