Description

An elegant, slender statuette of a halberd-bearing guard, made of bronzed regule, on a blackened pearwood base. This depiction of a Renaissance soldier is typical of the fascination that emerged under Napoleon III for these periods of history during the Ancien Régime, evoking a Romantic and chivalric spirit (circa 1850). Richly detailed and featuring a beautiful patina, this display piece is a period curiosity in very good condition--a lovely decorative item for a history lover...
