by Pierre Cardin for Jaeger in the early 1970s, the PC 102 watch exemplifies the French designer's boldness and his futuristic vision of design. Part of the Espace collection (1971-1973), it draws inspiration from geometric lines and the imagination of the space race. Powered by a hand-wound mechanical movement, this unique timepiece reflects the creative effervescence of the 1970s and will appeal to enthusiasts of watches with unconventional designs. Model 102 is featured in Pieter Doensen's book Watch History of the Modern Wristwatch, p. 30.
