Length : 11,3cm/21 cm

Description

A knife known as the "à la Berge," named after the inventor of the compass-shaped blades--one made of steel, the other of silver--with a mother-of-pearl handle and gold fittings. Moulins, 1775-1781. The master's hallmark "LM" features a key, indicating Louis Molle, who was active in Moulins before 1775 and after 1798. Length: 11.3 cm closed, 21 cm open. Condition: good; traces of oxidation on the steel blade, small cracks in the mother-of-pearl, and some play in the blades.
