Description

A large chest of drawers of Lombard origin, dating from the 17th century, crafted from walnut and characterized by high-quality construction and refined craftsmanship in its decorative elements. The piece features three large drawers with walnut burl veneer fronts, embellished with richly carved frames and Baroque-style moldings. The top is crafted from a single piece of solid walnut wood, a particularly valuable feature that highlights the quality of the materials used and the craftsmanship. The chest of drawers stands out for its harmonious proportions, the richness of its carvings, and the refined contrast between the warm grain of the burl and the darker tones of the frame. The piece is in excellent condition and is almost entirely original. The only restorations involve the replacement of a lock and
